

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A form display unit (31) displays a form in which a display item for starting a function that a general operator is prohibited to perform is made invisible. After 5 this, an event processing unit (38) detects an event while the form is being displayed. If the detected event is a specific event, the event processing unit (38) authenticates a current operator as a specific operator, and activates a display change unit (32). The display
10 change unit (32) makes the display item appear on the displayed form.